Call for Participants
INGRoup Student Workshop 2020
Application Deadline: April 1st

What: INGRoup proudly announces the inaugural Student Workshop, to be held immediately before the INGRoup Conference in Washington! The aim of the workshop is to build a community of the next generation of interdisciplinary group researchers and provide constructive and practical support for students’ ongoing research.

Different from the INGRoup Doctoral Consortium, this student workshop is aimed at having a more in-depth discussion about your ongoing/almost complete/later stage work (e.g. dissertation draft or job market paper) with other students and faculty. We encourage students to submit works in progress that they are eager to discuss and develop among a peer of teams scholars. In addition to a lot of informal interactions, we will allot approximately 45 minutes per student for dynamic small group discussions with a couple of other attendees and faculty (who would have read your draft prior to the workshop). A primary motivation for this workshop is to support the development of junior teams researchers.

Who: 4th and 5th year PhD students who are members of INGRoup. If you are not currently a member, now is a great time to join INGRoup at the reduced graduate student rate, so that you can qualify for our workshop.

When & Where: The workshop will be held on Thursday, July 30, 2020 at the Hyatt Regency Bellevue, Washington, USA. The finalized agenda and location details will be forwarded to confirmed participants prior to the workshop.

Student Workshop Registration/Funding: This event is being sponsored by INGRoup so there is no additional cost to attend the workshop. If selected, we will cover breakfast and lunch on Thursday, July 30th. We are working hard to gather funds to host a casual welcome dinner for all attendees the night before, on Wednesday, July 29th. The only requirement is for you to be an active INGRoup member and registered for the 2020 Annual INGRoup Conference. You don’t have to be presenting at the main conference to apply. Application for Student Workshop are independent.

Interested? Apply now! Doctoral students at advanced stages of their degree programs will be given priority. Please submit the following items:

1. Your current CV
2. A letter of support from your PhD advisor explaining why you are at the right stage of your program to attend.

(3) A 2-5 page summary of your work in the area of groups or teams research. The research project should be a work-in-progress first author effort (e.g., dissertation, manuscript). Please note that you will be put in a small group to workshop your research and one week in advance of the workshop you will be required to submit an updated research manuscript that will be shared with fellow group members.

If you have questions related to the conference, please email Pranav Gupta (pranavgu@andrew.cmu.edu), Paul Ahn (hahn36@wisc.edu), and Heather Altman (haltman@stanford.edu).

To apply for the consortium, please submit application materials through the following link: <application link>

Applicants are asked on the survey to confirm that, if invited to attend, (1) you will be able to submit a longer manuscript two weeks in advance of the workshop; and (2) you will be able to arrive in Washington on or before by July 29th so that you may attend the full day of activities on July 30th.

Key Dates:
April 1st: Deadline to apply <application link>
April 15th: Applicants will be notified if they are accepted to participate in the consortium

Sessions will include:
- Multiple small-group roundtable discussions of participants’ research projects
- Navigating the dissertation and job search
- Perspectives on groups research careers

Faculty Participants are still being finalized: TBA

We look forward to hearing from you!
